[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, April 26.—What some military critics are inclined to pronounce the greatest battle of the war is now under way on the Yser canal.
Official reports are both meager and contradictory, but it is generally believed in London the Germans are making a desperate effort to break through the French channel ports. Some recrudescence of the German offensive has been anticipated for some time, but this movement, if it is the one, is a distinct shock to the general public.

Transfer Von Hindenburg.
It is impossible as yet to get a clear idea of the extent of the German movement, but some special dispatches to London papers describe it as so important that the Germans are even credited with bringing Field Marshal Von Hindenburg from the east to conduct operations and Emperor Wilhelm himself is reported proceeding to the Yser front.

In the Yser arena of hostilities the Carpathians, with the Yser for interest. The gateway into Hungary formed by the Uszok pass again is becoming the scene of sanguinary fighting.

British Check Advance.
Paris, via London, April 26.—The French war office today gave out an official report reading:
"In Belgium, the German attacks moving south from Poperinghe and from Brodeuse, were checked yesterday by British troops. The enemy has been repulsed with violence. Our divisions are being continued along the Yser."
"At Notre Dame de Lorette we repulsed a German attack."

On the night of the Meuse the fighting is developing. The attack on the Calonne trench reported yesterday was checked by our counter-attacks and the enemy driven back. He subsequently made another attack further to the east in the direction of St. Remy, evidently striving to recapture Les Eparges."

CHARITY SWINDLERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, April 26.—An inquiry conducted by the judicial authorities of Paris, as the result of complaints made by the public, has revealed the fact that out of 147 charitable organizations, 76 are swindlers. The war began, 76 are swindlers. The war began, 76 are swindlers. The war began, 76 are swindlers.

Two of these "philanthropists" in particular attracted the attention of the investigators. While they were destitute when the war began, they now have handsome town and country residences, luxurious automobiles and are hosts at sumptuous dinners. The receipts of their "charities" are said to have fallen below 2,000 francs in 1914, a day since they began operations in September.

Noon Today and Adjourn Out of Respect to Late Joseph
L. Bostwick.

The directors of the Commercial club held a meeting this noon and adjourned without further business out of respect to Joseph L. Bostwick, who was a director of the club. President J. A. Craig eulogized Mr. Bostwick as a man of high ideals and sterling qualities and left their impression upon the community. Mr. Bostwick was a man of high ideals and sterling qualities and left their impression upon the community.

In the passing of Joseph L. Bostwick, the community has suffered a distinct loss. In a commercial and philanthropic way.
Mr. Bostwick was public spirited to a marked degree. No movement for the betterment of the community, whether civil or social, but that received his enthusiastic support. His philanthropy or charity but that felt his generosity and in his quiet unassuming way he accomplished much for good that never became public.

The business circles of the city will feel his loss keenly and the Commercial club of which he was a director and ardent supporter, will miss his counsel and advice. Those intimate associated with him have enjoyed his even temperament and jovial disposition and as time passes will realize more acutely his absence.
He resolved that this tribute be placed upon the minutes of the Commercial club and a copy be forwarded to the family as a testimonial to Mr. Bostwick's worth.

The business houses will be closed at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during the funeral services as a mark of thought and respect to Mr. Bostwick.

War News Summary.

The opinion is growing in Rome that Austria and Italy are drifting inevitably toward war. A diplomat credited to the quinal, quotes Prince Von Baulow, the German ambassador at Rome, who has been the principal figure in the effort to avert such a war, as saying it would be impossible for Austria to accept Italy's demands. Peppino Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian statesman, who recently talked to the Italian king and premier, is said to have received from them the impression that Italy would enter the war with the allies.

Italian refugees from Austria say the frontier has been fortified by the Austrians with concrete trenches and heavy artillery.
A British correspondent credited officially to the Dardanelles expedition, admits that the problem of forcing the straits is a tremendous one. His observations have led him to believe that a strong army for operations on the Gallipoli peninsula will be necessary. Land operations, he says, would present difficulties since the Turks are strongly entrenched.

New victories in the fighting in the Carpathians are claimed by the Austrians. After several weeks of slow progress they have at last rescued the Russian position on both sides of the Orava valley, the Vienna war office announced. Petrograd reports the repulse of an attack in Uszok pass and says that the Austrians have brought up a large amount of artillery along the Carpathian front.

ers in foreign ports will be taken over by the Government owing to the scarcity of suitable steamers in the country.

It is stated by admiralty officials that British vessels are avoiding the United Kingdom owing to the probability of their being taken over for Government purposes, and such ships will now be commandeered wherever they may be, as necessity arises. The shipowner at present rates can make about three times as much profit on the open market as through a lease to the Government.

The British Navy is still actively engaged at Gibraltar in stopping steamers bound for ports in the Mediterranean. Several vessels meet with considerable delays.
Special attention is being paid to steamers having their cargoes or portions of their cargoes assigned to Switzerland. One vessel posted recently on the Baltic Exchange was a steamer which had been detained at Gibraltar 105 days before she was allowed to proceed.

Shipowners are not taking the precaution to stipulate that if any cargo is destined to Switzerland it must be consigned to the Swiss Government.

London, April 26.—The steamer Nordam, with forty American women delegates to the Hague peace conference among its passengers, anchored in the Downs unable to obtain permission to proceed up the channel to Rotterdam. Jane Addams has sent an appeal to United States Ambassador Page urging him to enlist the aid of the American government to secure the release of the marooned delegates and enable them to arrive at The Hague in time for the conference, which opens Wednesday.

KRON PRINZ TAKES ON SUPPLY OF COAL

Newport News, Va., April 26.—The German auxiliary steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm which put in here for repairs two weeks ago after her commerce raiding cruise, was towed from her anchorage to a coal pier early today. She will take aboard between 3,500 and 4,000 tons of bunker coal, it was stated. This will require today a party of a large number of men.

The Kron Prinz Wilhelm will take on a ten days' supply of water and provisions. That is the estimated time she would require to make the nearest German port. The steamer boiler tubes and other inside repairs were completed yesterday and Captain Thierfelder will decide whether to attempt a dash to sea or to intern with the British fleet. In marine circles it is said the time limit for the Wilhelm expires Friday or Saturday.

PASTOR'S SCANDAL

of Alleged Slander on Complaint
of Fulton Pastor.

What promises to be a sensational suit when the case is called a week from today, May 3d, had its beginning this morning when Rev. E. C. Carton, pastor of the First Congregational church of Palmyra, was brought into court on the charge of having slandered Rev. William Leighton of Fulton. Rev. Carton was served with the warrant just as he finished his evening service at his home church last evening. It is alleged that the defendant made statements which reflected upon the virtue and chastity of the plaintiff while in Milton on February 8th last, naming a woman, and a visit to a hotel in his remarks. The case was continued until called this morning at the request of Mr. Carton's lawyers, George Sutherland and E. H. Ryan, to permit Mr. Carton's lawyer, Mr. Lockney and Williams of Waukesha, to appear.

Judge Maxwell was at first inclined to place him in charge of the state board of control for three years, but reserved sentence.

NO SIGNS OF POVERTY

Theatres Open and Popular Music Halls Thronged.—All Evidence of Strife's Streets is Banished.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, April 26.—Vienna in war time presents the most amazing spectacle of being the most unconcerned capital in Europe. The imperial city of the Hapsburgs, a dynasty which has been vitally affected by the outcome of the war, seems to be going about its daily business wholly oblivious of the fact that hundreds of its sons already have laid down their lives with "God, the Kaiser and the Fatherland" on their lips, says a long dispatch to the Continental Times. Its streets teeming with activity, its stores brilliantly lighted, its cafes crowded and every one of its theaters open and well patronized—this situation, which would pass unnoticed in normal times, makes Vienna a city of absorbing interest.

Vienna is an enigma among the war capitals. London is dark and bleak; Paris just creeping back into life like a convalescent soldier; Brussels beleaguered and starving; Rome (not yet a war capital, but far from peace conditions) deserted by tourists. The thing that amazes one in Vienna is that there should be any life at all. Ordinarily it is not on the highroad of travel, and the Americans who might have long since deserted it.

Not a Flag in Sight.
On the day when your correspondent arrived in Vienna some weeks ago, the flag was flying from any of the buildings, either public institutions, hotels, hospitals or homes. Automobiles and cabs whirled through the streets displaying neither colors nor flags. The war, it seemed, was virtually every cab bears a sign of the allies and posters calling on young men to enlist.

At the Grand hotel hundreds of guests in fur and top hats were just emerging from "5 o'clock tea," an English custom transplanted by the hotels to a city where coffee is served better than anywhere else in Europe. At the same time the streets and the male population of Vienna crowded the cafes. The men sat so close at the diminutive marble top tables that their knees touched.

Rich Refuges Add to Poverty.
Vienna would appear considerably more like the other capitals if it were not for thousands of refugees from Galicia, many of whom mingle with the crowds in the streets and in the coffee houses. The poorer refugees from Galicia have found sanctuary in the smaller towns. The more prosperous men and women have fled to Vienna. Many of these have suffered grave losses, but still have enough money with them to make residence in the capital possible. They are not doing much spending, however.

"They like to look into the windows, but buy very little," several tradesmen lamented to me. "I have been in peace times, but that since the articles were more luxuries than necessities they were satisfied. There was only one prominent store that found it necessary to close because of the war, a small art shop near the Kaerntner Ring, which displays a sign that it will be closed till the end of the war. There are fewer objects referring to the war on display than might be expected. Those found are in the best of taste and show a high degree of workmanship. Jewelry stores display such novelties as rings with the Austrian cross as a signet, a bar pin of silver with the heads of the German and Austrian emperors in relief. Small medals bearing the motto of the Austrian emperor, "Bibimus Unitis." Particularly tasteful are the bronze medallions, some circular, several inches in diameter, some oblong and perhaps 2 by 4 inches or 4 by 6 inches in size, bearing in relief the heads of the two emperors.

War Books by the Ton.
The bookstores, as elsewhere, specialize on war material, and it seems after an inspection of the bookstalls of other capitals, that more books dealing with every conceivable phase of the war have been printed in the German tongue than in any other. Americans who know what a large output of war reading matter in English is available in any Chicago book store will wonder at this statement. They would be surprised if they could walk into a German bookstore and behold the tons of printed matter relating to the war, including technical discussions, economic studies, political treatises, detailed considerations of the run of the war, and the ordinary run of narratives. If the German public is not thoroughly grounded on every phase of European politics and war preparedness is not to be blamed on the makers of books.

It is to be supposed that in Vienna, where melody has its home, there are to be found plenty of patriotic songs, but even the display in the music stores are not ostentatious. War has left its imprint here and there in other trades, but only a centimeter of change here and there to be noticed. The gun in other guns.

These are some of the ideas of A. F. Kowalski, retiring Socialist member of the city park board. He is preparing for his farewell address, which he will embody perhaps all these plans in a final resolution before his term ends in June.
Three-cent dancing may be said to be a lowly pleasure. In Washington, Lake, Humboldt, Koscusko, Mitchell, Gordon and Kibbourn parks, he points out, are large pavilions for the necessary facilities for holding dances.
"The dances can easily be made self-supporting," said Kowalski today. "In other cities I know personally that the three-cent dances pay for music and other small expenses. The park board could conduct the refreshment stands on its own account and add to its income. I would suggest that there be dancing two nights a week in each park designated for that purpose."
Kowalski is also firmly convinced that the municipal bee hive would be a success. The apiaries, he said, could be located in isolated sections of the parks, a beekeeper appointed, the busy little bees would begin to gather wealth for all the people of Milwaukee, and everybody would be happy in proportion to the bees activity.

Next in importance for making money in the parks is the aquarium. Kowalski, relative to the aquarium, thinks Kowalski. There is running water in McKinley, Humboldt, Evergreen, Gordon, Kern and Washington parks. He proposes to have an aquarium built in each of these parks from the state fish commission, and await results.
"We have the animals now," said Kowalski, relative to the municipal zoo idea. "Let's raise them for other zoos. It is impossible to ship animals from Europe to this country because of the war, so why shouldn't we undertake to make our own zoo self-supporting and make a little money on the side?"
Another idea of Kowalski's is to establish restaurants in the parks, notably where summer concerts are held, so that husband and wife and children of a delightful summer's evening, eat supper in joyful family fashion on the greenward and listen to the band.
Kowalski is unquestionably serious in his park innovations, and is particularly anxious to see his dancing and restaurant ideas fulfilled before he quits the board.

ALLEGED CRACKSMAN
HELD FOR BURGLARY
UNDER HEAVY BAILCharles Hayden, Stranger, Captured
by Police Saturday Night at Val Blatz Brewery Through
Hobo's "Tip."

Charles Hayden was arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield in the municipal court this morning on the charge of burglary during the night time, the complaint being made by Chief of Police Champlin, following the capture of Hayden Saturday night, when it is alleged he attempted to enter the agency warehouse of the Val Blatz company at 506 West street.

The police believe that they have a good prize in Hayden and there is every reason to believe that the stranger is an expert safe blower and intended to "crack the strong box at the Val Blatz plant. Saturday night the police received a "tip" from a hobo named Phillips that Hayden was a skilled cracksmen and that he intended doing several jobs in the neighborhood. According to the hobo Hayden don him a "bad turn" and he was "squealing" for revenge. Phillips stated to the police that Hayden had hidden a flash light in a quantity of nitro-glycerine and fuses in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul rail cars, giving evidence that he was a "job" in this city. The police went with the stranger to the railroad yards and searched for the robber's tools. The flash light, fuses and nitro-glycerine were missing from their hiding place and Chief Champlin, Patrolman Harry Smith and Phillips started down the tracks to search for Hayden. At eleven o'clock Chief Champlin and Patrolman Smith waited behind cars near the Val Blatz warehouse with the expectation of catching the erstwhile safe blower. Their efforts were rewarded for Hayden came from behind the building and while looking up and down the tracks the two policemen nounced upon him before he could make a move.

Their efforts were rewarded for Hayden came from behind the building and while looking up and down the tracks the two policemen nounced upon him before he could make a move.

Both were of the type of the skilled robbers, being made from railroad iron and the tips filed smooth to slip under the window. When arrested Hayden tried to drop the tools, but the act was noticed by the police. The indentations in the window fit exactly with one of the files found on Hayden. The iron pieces found on Hayden were used during the night time chase without a word of comment and asked for a preliminary examination, which the court set for May 1st, at ten o'clock. In default of one thousand dollar bail, the alleged robber was committed to the county jail until his hearing. Hayden was charged with burglary in the first degree, possession of tools for burglary, and possession of nitro-glycerine.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 26.—Municipal three-cent dances. Municipal fish hatcheries. Municipal flower gardens and greenhouses. Municipal restaurants. Municipal propagation of animals in the zoo for market.

CORRECT LAW PENALTY

WHO USED THE AXES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, April 26.—The anomaly in the old criminal law by which the penalty for malicious damage to a work of art was rated less than damage to a window has now been corrected by the new criminal justice administration act, aimed originally at the suffragettes. The act was drawn up early last year, but did not receive the sanction of Parliament until August. It has just taken effect. There have been no suffragette outrages attempted since the outbreak of the war.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Syracuse, April 26.—A series of confidential letters taken from the files kept by the late Thomas C. Platt, who was representing the state of New York in the United States senate, were read today to the jury trying Wm. Barnes' suit for alleged libel against Theodore Roosevelt in supreme court here. Some of the letters were signed by Senator Platt, while others were signed by Col. Roosevelt. In nearly all of them the writers discussed candidates for office in state government and in reply were given by Mr. Barnes' counsel, the former president of the state, the slightest hesitation he consulted freely with Senator Platt about affairs at Albany, knowing and realizing that the letters were in the stock of the republican party in this state. One of the letters read during the session contained a postscript which read:
"All right, I'll change the whole board of tax assessors."
The letters were brought to Syracuse by the former senator's son and turned over to counsel for Mr. Barnes.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 26.—Edward C. Wall, one of the most prominent democrats in the country and at one time a candidate for the nomination to the presidency, is dead at his home in Milwaukee.
He succumbed at nine o'clock Sunday morning, following an illness of two weeks. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Wall was one of the most prominent democratic leaders in this part of the country and until 1906, when he retired, one of the city's leading business men, being engaged in the stock and brokerage business as a member of the firm of Wall & Bigelow. He was a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in 1904 and a member of the council for several years. He was vice president and president of the Chamber of Commerce at various times.

Mr. Wall was born in Milwaukee, August 11, 1854, in the old Milwaukee house at Wisconsin street and Broadway, and was the son of Caleb Wall, a member of the first city council and public spirited of the early settlers.

BILL POSTING "TRUST"
PLACED ON TRIAL.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, April 26.—The government and the alleged bill posting "trust" are today being put on trial. The new Mountain Lands, who plastered the $25,000,000 fine on the Standard Oil, trial was scheduled today of the government's anti-trust dissolution suit against the bill posting combination known as the association of Bill Posters and Distributors in the United States and Canada.

Control of practically all the outdoor districts and billboard advertising in the two countries by the "trust" is charged by the government, which has secured dozens of depositions from big advertisers said to have been victimized and "choked up" by the combination and cover 3,500 towns, and no outsider can get a foot on space without dealing with them.

The concerns named as the controlling factors of the association are the Associated Bill Posters and Protective Co. of New York; A. M. Briggs & Co. of Chicago; Nordem & Co. of Pittsburgh; Postal Selling Co. of St. Louis; Enos Troop Inc. of Chicago; A. de Montzulin & Co. of Cincinnati; and C. E. Atchinson & Co. of Atlanta.

The government alleges that 32 former concerns interested in the business have been "gobbled up" and put out of business by the trust.

Paris, April 26.—A friend and brother officer of Petrino Garibaldi has informed the Petit Journal that Garibaldi gained the impression from interviews with King Victor Emmanuel, Premier Salandra and Foreign Minister Sennino and prominent politicians that Italy would enter the war on the side of the allies before parliament convenes in May.

Mobilization Hurts Trade.

Verona, Italy, via Paris, April 26.—Dispatches received from the frontier describing conditions in the province of Trent, state that commerce and industry are paralyzed because of lack of workmen, 40,000 having been called to the colors. All horses and oxen have been requisitioned.
The lack of sulphate of copper used to kill parasites which infect the mulberry trees, has seriously threatened the silk work industry, one of the chief resources of that section.

Austrian military authorities are said to be rapidly completing their preparations for defense. Four thousand troops are quartered in Trent, 4,000 at Rovereto, 4,000 at Riva, 15,000 all together at various smaller places. Arrangements are being made for housing 100,000 Italian soldiers in Trent and 2,000 at Mezzolana.

Food Shortage in Trieste.

Rome, via Paris, April 26.—Eighty-seven more arrests for demonstrations resulting from the shortage of food, are reported from Trieste. The people are starving, a large supply of food has been received. Serious disorders also have been reported from Istria, situated on the Gulf of Trieste, as well as Arco and Hiva in Trent.

To Porcupine Parliament.
Rome, via Paris, April 26.—The opinion prevails in parliamentary circles that the Italian decision as to Italy's participation in the war is reached previous to May 12, the date upon which the chamber of deputies reconvenes, parliament will be prorogued. International questions could not be discussed in while they were still under negotiations, it is argued, and it would be absurd and most undignified for parliament to discuss trifling matters when such highly important questions were before the country. Furthermore, the chamber has given full powers to the cabinet, and no action has occurred to destroy this confidence.

Referring to the international financial situation created by the war, the Giornale d'Italia says the United States at the end of hostilities will be the only country to have secured large economic profit. This paper then gives statistics to show the increase in America exports, and says:

"This war, which is devouring Europe, is a magnificent thing financially for the United States."

CITY OF ETZINA IS DESCRIBED BY SOCIETY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, April 26.—Major Polo's City of Etzina, where in ancient times travelers bound for the old Mongolian capital of Karakoram used to obtain food for the forty-day trip across the desert, has been discovered and examined by Sir Aurel Stein, whose account of explorations in Central Asia has just been received by the Royal Geographical Society.

Sir Aurel Stein's trip in April last year, and his report is dated November 22 from Turfan at the eastern foot of the Tien Shan mountains. His party started from Tunhuang and followed for 200 miles an ancient wall, which he had previously discovered. The wall, with its watch towers, forts and military establishments, was built across even what must have been even in ancient times a sterile desert. Its construction was remarkably well adapted to the climate, being made of fascines of reeds or brushwood with layers of clay or gravel in between, the only material to withstand the slow grinding but relentless erosion of the winds. Here the Chinese soldiers kept guard during the dark centuries before and after Christ. The ruins show a high degree of engineering skill. In ancient times, this country was irrigated, as the remains of ditches proved. Many household implements were found in the ruins of the forts.

Kharakhoto, Marco Polo's city of Etzina, yielded a large quantity of relics such as Buddhist and Manichaean prints, stucco reliefs and frescoes and ornaments. The town is now largely in ruins.

dollar from each member of the club by Secretary W. J. McDowell, to secure a fund for the "Cleanup" days of May 3d and 4th.
The money will be used for the hiring of teams and teamsters to collect the refuse which property-owners are requested to deposit on the curbing of their property.

About all arrangements have been completed for the brightening up day. Members of the committee in charge earnestly request the co-operation of every man, woman and child in Janesville to do as much work as possible to place the city in a spick
and span condition.

"One day won't clean up the city,"
said a member of the committee
this morning. "Enough civic interest must parallel the first effort to continue to keep a place in the best of condition. After May 3d and 4th Janesville will have enough civic pride and interest to keep their respective properties in an orderly and neat condition and absolutely discourage any sort of careless scattering of any dirt or refuse."

In the passing of Joseph L. Bostwick, the community has suffered a distinct loss, both in a commercial and patriotic way.

Mr. Bostwick was a public spirited to a marked degree. No movement for the betterment of the community, either civic or commercial, but that received his enthusiastic support. His philanthropy or charity but that he his generosity and in his quiet unassum-ing way he accomplished much for good that never became public.

The business circle of Janesville will feel his loss keenly and the Commercial club of which he was a director and ardent supporter, will miss his counsel and advice. Those intimately associated with him have enjoyed his even temperament and jovial disposition and as time passes will realize more acutely his absence.

Be it resolved that this tribute be placed upon the minutes of the Commercial club and a copy be forwarded to the family as a testimonial to Mr. Bostwick's worth.

ROD AND GUN CLUB IN ANNUAL REPORT FOR YEARLY MEETING

Sportsman's Organization Show Game Protection and Propagation Work Accomplished.

On Friday, May seventh at eight o'clock the annual meeting of the Rock County Rod and Gun Club will be held at the city hall assembly rooms for the election of officers and making plans for the coming year's work of the sportsman's organization. There are over three hundred members to the club residing throughout the county and all have taken an active interest in the game protection and propagation during the last year.

The annual report made by F. E. Green, president, and Robert R. Pear, secretary, has been sent to each member of the club. Since the date of organizing the total cash received by the club has been $301.00 and the amount paid out is $211.25, leaving a balance of $89.75 in the treasury. During the year of 1914 there was distributed through the efforts of the club the following number of fish fry in streams in the county: 9,000 brook trout, 7,500 rainbow trout, 2,600 pike, and 33,000 black bass. Wild rice was planted in the Spaulding pond, Allen pond, Allen pond, Champion pond, Fulton dam, and two ponds near Evansville and in Rock County.

There was liberated by the club fifteen pheasants which were placed on timber land, seven miles north of Janesville. The pheasants are four months old and have been wintered well and are expected to increase in number this year through the protection given them by the Rod and Gun Club.

During the year there were 41 arrests and convictions for violations of the game and fish laws through the game warden of this district co-operating with the club. Fewer game violations were accomplished through the reward offered by the sportsmen for the conviction of an offense.

The real gain accomplished is through gaining the covers of fishing and hunting in the protection work and organizing them effectively.

WHITE SOX WIN FOURTH GAME WITH BROWNS, 1-0

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, April 26.—Great pitching by Red Russell won the fourth straight victory for the Chicago White Sox Sunday when they defeated the St. Louis Browns in the last game of the series, one to nothing. Russell pitched a four-hitter, allowing only one run, one hit and one error. The game was crowded with 24,000 spectators and saw Russell hold the Browns helpless during the nine innings of pitching. Between the two games, Russell and the Sox came to the fifth when John Collins walked and was safe at second on Weaver's throw. Brief sacrifice both men and took hit safe down third base. The one run the Sox looked to score in the ninth was perfect and Russell done the rest.

MORRIS MILLER

Eddie Almsmith of the Washington club is catching the best ball of his career this spring, and his improvement in his all-around work undoubtedly is due to the fact that he is being worked more regularly than ever before. Almsmith always has contended that he would hit much better if he were in the game more, and he also is making good in this respect.

Lee Magee is commencing to learn what it means to manage a regular ball club. He soon will know that the proper thing to do is anything the management tells him not to do.

With the release of Ham Hyatt, pinch hitter, the St. Louis Cardinals will be down to twenty-one men, and of these a couple may soon be discarded. Huggins evidently is preparing to grab a few players when other major league clubs cut loose. Huggins paid good money for Hyatt last fall, setting him from Pittsburgh.

A new school of managers is being introduced in the middle west in Jimmy Jackson, Izzy Hoffman and John Castle, all from the defunct Tri-State. Their success in new territory will be watched with interest. Jackson is at Topeka, Hoffman at Peoria and Castle at Quincy.

The Memphis club of the Southern league has insured its players for $75,000 under one of the baseball accident policies that are popular in English pugilists are just as ready the majors.

Walter Wilmet, the former major league star, gave Jesse Altengberg of the Pirates quite a lecture, on base running a few days ago. Walter was in his day, and in the business during one of the best in the game. Altengberg has a great future before him. One of the pointers handed by the veteran was to watch the pitcher's face when he is pitching. "If his lower jaw muscles twitch, you know he is going to pitch," said he. "I found this out years ago; the pitcher may control every other muscle, but he cannot control his jaw."

Harvard is taking no chance on athletes being qualified for falling down in studies. A rigid time-card system has been adopted showing with what each athlete is occupied every hour in the day. Blank spaces are so apportioned that he has all the time needed for study. Then undergraduate team managers keep in touch closely to be sure there is no falling behind in recitations.

Since the passing of Johnson, Frank Kramer, the world's champion cyclist, is the only one of the old champions now remaining in any line of sport. Kramer is entering upon his fifteenth year in the bike game, and if his riding at the Newark Velodrome is any criterion he will retain his title another year. He is without doubt the cleanest living athlete in the world, and it will be a long time before old Father Time grabs the East Orange boy.

When Willie Doak, who pitches so well for the Cards, was in full flush of his career last summer, enthusiastic poets tried to pay proper honors to him. They had to use blank verse, however, when they found that about the only words that rhymed with "Doak" were "soak," "broke," "poke," "smoke," "choke" and "croak."

Manager Herzog has only two more men to release in order to be down to the legal player limit. One infielder will go and it will probably be Tommy Sheehan, who is a grand little ball player, but the victim of circumstances. The team can carry only six infielders, and on Kohnitz and Wagner have the call as utility men on account of their exceptional hitting ability. Sheehan was secured from Terre Haute on an agreement to pay $2,500 for his release in case he was with the Reds after April 25.

The Pittsburgh Federals have more confidence in Marty Berghammer's batting than was ever shown by either Joe Tinker or Buck Herzog. They have set him second in the batting order.

ORCHARD WILDCATS WIN FIFTH STRAIGHT CONTEST

The Orchard Wildcats won their fifth straight game Sunday when they defeated the Monterey Sluggers, in the Fourth ward park. By the score of 13 to 10, and on Saturday rounced the First Ward Stars.

In the game with Monterey Campbell and Gregory were the battery for the victorious Wildcats, and McCarthy caught and Bick pitched for the Sluggers. In the Saturday game Gregory and Campbell pitched with Fox and Munson as catchers. Ashton and Woodford were the battery for the Stars. Chifedra Win. Dugan's Chifedra defeated the Monterey Sluggers in an exciting game at the Fourth ward park Saturday by a score of 15 to 8. Dugan, pitcher for the Chifedra, proved to be an iron man for the winning nine.

HE GETS ANOTHER CHANCE IN MAJORS

Fred Toney has been given one more chance to make good in the majors. The long twirler who had several unsuccessful try-outs with the Chicago Cubs is now trying his luck with the Cincinnati Reds. He played with Louisville last year.

BLACK HAWKS DEFEAT COLLIE HILL TEAM

Janesville Team Opens Season With Victory Over Beloit Nine by Score of 5 to 3.

Tim McCue's Black Hawk ball tossers opened their season with a 5 to 3 victory over the Collie Hill team at Beloit yesterday. The Janesville five winning in the last two innings by a strong batting rally. The Line City nine had the lead, 2 to 0, up until the seventh when the Black Hawk warriors got busy with their scalping knives and pounded him runs enough for a victory.

In the seventh W. Fleming got a walk, and two hits and an error on Nord tied the score. Beloit tallied again in the eighth. In the Hawk's half of the ninth they went to Hanken and showed some real baseball, and when the sun came out the Hawk's had the game tucked away by the score of 5-3.

McCue's batting artist for the Hawk's who is by far one of the best amateur pitchers in the city, had it all over Hansen, the Beloit burler. The former getting 17 strike-outs and allowing 4 hits and the latter 10 strike-outs and allowing 9 hits.

Jimmie Doorn, McCue's first sacker, is a second Frank Chance, should he continue the season as he started. 1915 may find him with the Sox. The Hawks have been improving in the last couple of years and their boys from the back lots of the third City taking notice before the season is over.

Manager McCue has a number of games he would like to play at home but as there is only one diamond it is impossible. The boys would like to hear from some one who has a plot of ground that would be suitable for a ball diamond, that could be leased or rented.

The line-up is as follows:
Ryan, 3b.; T. McCue, c.; Smith, cf.; W. Fleming, lf.; L. Fleming, p.; Doran, 1b.; Jungluth, 2b.; J. McAfee, rf.; Mulligan, ss.; H. Keideman, c.; Vankemen, cf.; Everson, lf.; Hansen, p.; Nordt, 1b.; Swanson, 2b.; Chipman, rf.; Munn, ss.

PACKEY MCFARLAND FAILS TO MAKE GOOD AGREEMENTS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, April 25.—In both McFarland and Gibbons camps chief talks these days is about poundage. The followers of the scientific stockyards marvel contend that at 145 pounds the weight agreed upon in the contract that calls for a ten round battle within a few weeks. Gibbons was greatly weakened. To offset this argument, Gibbons followers today pointed to their favorite's knockout of Young Ahearn and to the fight in which he handed a sleep walk to Young Mike Donovan. Gibbons weighed in at 145 just before each of these scraps. He also weighed 145 when he dropped Wildcat. Ferns for the count.

The Gibbons followers frankly admit Packey's prowess and skill, but

NEW POLITICAL ERA IN CHICAGO BEGINS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, April 26.—Elected mayor of Chicago by the greatest plurality ever given a mayor candidate in the Windy City, William Hale Thompson tonight will be formally inaugurated as mayor of America's second largest city.

Retiring Mayor Carter H. Harrison was to welcome his successor and conduct the simple but impressive ceremonies.

Thompson enters into his duties with several radical and unique policies in regard to alleviation of the employment problem, conduct of the city's affairs, and police warfare on crime and criminals.

Perhaps the most unique policy the new mayor has declared for is his planned fight against unemployment. It is his expressed plan to have the council vote a sum sufficient to give every patrolman on the street a dollar bill. This dollar is to be given, at the policeman's discretion, to men or women out of work, when the policeman knows to be deserving.

Thompson's theory is that the police would be closer to the average citizen than all the charity organization agents in the world and is thereby the one to do such work. When this dollar is expended, it will be replaced.

As to the business side of conducting the affairs of the fourth city in the world, Thompson has declared he will endeavor, wherever successful, to surround himself with successful business men, large or small who will be willing to emulate his example and give up four years of their lives to the work of the city.

Mayor Thompson has strong opinions regarding Chicago's crime situation. He has not yet gone into detail as to what his remedies for the wholesale robberies, street hold-ups, etc., will be, but he has said that crime and immorality can and must be checked by an honest and efficient police force. He intimated that he would try to get as chief of police a man regardless of political affiliation, who can be absolutely fearless in upholding the laws.

RELIGIOUS OUTBURST OVER BISHOP'S DEEDS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, April 26.—The Bishop of Zanzibar, Church of England, who last year started the so-called Kikuyu controversy by bringing here missionary bishops for administering communion to Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists at a joint service, has started another quarrel between the High Church and Low.

His latest outburst is against the Bishop of Hereford because of the appointment of the Rev. B. H. Streeter, the author of several religious books showing the influence of modern religious thought, to the canonry of Hereford Cathedral. His protest is in these words: "Therefore do we, Frank, Lord Bishop of Zanzibar, hereby declare and pronounce that so long as the ground of our complaint remains, there can be, and from this day forward there is, no communion in sacred things between ourselves and the Right Reverend John, Lord Bishop of Hereford, nor between ourselves and with any priest within his jurisdiction who shall make known his approval of the false doctrines now officially authorized within the Diocese of Hereford."

JOSEPH L. BOSTWICK.

When people who have lived through the years of expectancy, and out beyond the border, pass on, the fulfillment of life is complete, and there is nothing tragic about the closing chapter, but when the silent messenger comes to a life in the middle of busy activity, and relentlessly demands the supreme sacrifice, then mystery clouds our vision, and we seek in vain to solve the tragedy.

So today, in the home so burdened with sorrow, and throughout the city, where the impress of his life is so closely defined, sad hearts are asking the question, "Why was Joseph L. Bostwick chosen for the victim?" And in spite of all the science has accomplished, the knowledge of a defeat is recognized as the only answer. The average man is content to fill the niche where his lot is cast. Ambition prompts him to earn an honest living, and he enjoys the respect and confidence of the little circle where he moves, but there is now and then a man whose grasp of life, stimulated by a wider vision, enables him to occupy a place above the average. Such a man was Mr. Bostwick, and as the days go by, the shock caused by his sudden death, will be replaced by a sense of personal loss, for the city has lost a friend.

Mr. Bostwick was a representative business man. He stood for the best that was in commercial life, and honored the name and fame of his birthright. He kept pace with progress, and was rewarded by the confidence and support of a liberal constituency.

But he was more than a successful merchant because he enjoyed in rare degree the enterprise of public spirit. He was a leader, when public welfare was being considered and no argument was necessary to influence his judgment.

He was a philanthropist as well, ever ready to help a list for any worthy charity and liberal to fail in aiding the unfortunate. His private charities were sacred. He was always doing something to help somebody, and many a glad surprise found its way to some heart and home because of his modest relief.

There is an old saying that vacancies are instantly filled. Men and women are constantly dropping out by the wayside, and the ranks close up, and the way is open for new blood. This is as it should be, and chaos would result if conditions otherwise. Perhaps as choice an eulogy as could be paid to Mr. Bostwick, was the tribute by a friend, who said: "No man in the city will be missed so much as he." This expresses a widespread sentiment, and it means that the vacancy in the ranks will be difficult to fill.

The lessons of this life, which blessed the city with so many helpful influences, will long linger as a pleasant memory. They should inspire us, as citizens, to better service for humanity.

PEACE.

With Wall Street so far crediting rumors of peace as to establish new records of high prices, with President Wilson urging the necessity of this country so conducting itself as to fit itself still further to play the part of mediator when the war is over; with the president's close friend and adviser, Colonel E. M. House, of Texas, returning from his peace mission in Europe; and with the diplomatic corps animatedly discussing the real meaning of the president's speech to the Associated Press; peace has held the center of the stage in Washington during the last week, with only the rumblings of the now three-cornered conflict between the treasury department, the department of justice and the Riggs National bank to rattle the plume of the gentle dove. Cordially agreeing with the essential of Mr. Wilson's peace speech, the diplomats, with a craftiness begotten of long training in European capitals, are sedulously inquiring if, perchance, Mr. Wilson hospitably play the role of mediator with a view of recouping his political fortunes and those of his party. Disinterested mediation, these European statesmen would cordially welcome, but just now they are anxious to be assured that their difficulties and the terrible sacrifices their respective nations are making are in no way to be made a vehicle by which the fortunes of any political party are to be promoted. Coincidentally with the president's address, Colonel House concluded his peace mission in Europe, a mission undertaken against the advice of the ambassadors of the belligerent countries in which, as they foretold, has resulted in complete failure. "This is no time even to suggest peace talk," Col. House has been told, and that is precisely what the diplomats assured the president he would be told even before he started.

CLEAN-UP DAYS.

Janesville is to be spick and span for the summer visitors if the work of the volunteer committee having the clean-up day's program in charge is any criterion of what we may expect. Winter has risen from spring's lap for keeps and departed on its own and welcome vacation. In fact he sort of overstayed his welcome as it was. However he is gone and the next thing to do is to remedy the conditions he left behind.

The committee in charge of the clean-up day plans for May 3d and 4th are most anxious for the co-operation of every citizen. It is a worthy cause and one which should interest all, young and old. This idea of cleaning up the city and then keeping it clean afterwards. Get busy and plan for your special work on these two days. If your yard is clean, plan some improvement to make it more beautiful, but fall in line for progress. The warm weather is here to stay. Its coming lays a duty upon every householder. Get all the rubbish and dirt out of the house. Get all of the waste out of the yard. Make your own premises clean and sanitary and if the city is not doing its part by getting the street well swept, kick.

This is the season when the fly mobilities for the summer campaign. He is preparing his hosts of germ transports for a attack well issue. The health department might well issue this timely warning concerning this feared and industrious enemy of man. "The fly is the commonest disease carrier in Wisconsin state and it is the fly in particular which reveals in all sorts of dirt. It breeds in dirt and then carries the germs it has picked on its feet and deposits them in the mouth of the milk picher or on the sugar. The time to stop fly breeding is in the spring, for every fly which falls to produce at this time means thousands of flies less in August."

Better take pains now that no fly has a comfortable habitation in which to rear a large, hungry and dirty family, than undertake a month from now to swat a million of his progeny.

Any householder can prove his bravery times without number by positively refusing to deprive the professional carpet-cleaner of a job when asked to do so by the "head of the house" when he returns from work.

Man's supporters for his candidacy for the presidential nomination are remarking that not since the days of Benjamin Harrison has a president had a good stand of whiskers. If whiskers are a qualification how about J. Ham Lewis and his pink ones?

What with spring house-cleaning, May day moving, paper-hangers, raking lawns and preparing gardens for weeds to appear in later, the joyous springtime is really a lost art these days.

Bulgaria's motives may not be of the highest order, but still they must be considered when it is understood they are preserving what is left of peace in the Balkan peninsula.

Thus far there are plenty of empty bird houses in the city, but the makers should not be discouraged as there is still time for them to be occupied before summer really arrives.

The waters of the placid Rock are attractive these spring days when the banks are lined with wild flowers and everything looks so comfortable and peaceful.

Why does not everyone admire the courage of the man who dares to wear a straw hat just as soon as the season demands it?

No one of Bryan's critics have gone as far as to accuse him of wearing his hair in a law back or pompadour.

Uncle Sam's answer to Germany's note is soft enough to turn away wrath, but not soft enough to permit bullying.

The legislature is racing through its program these days and is making all sorts of strides towards adjournment.

Blondin's feat of walking over the Niagara gorge on a slack wire would be nothing at all to the average Italian statesman these days.

Somehow the arms and ammunition factories do not appear to be suffering from any labor troubles these nice spring days.

Japanese warships ought to be more careful about picking out spots to run aground so as not to jar the sensitive nerves of the jingoist.

My but Roosevelt held conferences with a lot of questionable chaps even to believe his own tale as related on the witness stand.

Why not put Bryan and Huerta on the chautauqua platform? Bryan to talk prohibition, and Huerta to stand forth as the horrible example.

There is considerable virtue in paint, particularly if it is used to freshen up things in the spring time.

To safeguard submarines why not attach them to aeroplanes in case of accidents?

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 425 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

Message No. 4

To the Business Men of Janesville

A young doctor, making a start in a small town, decided that to be prosperous he must look prosperous. He bought a new buggy and two good horses. Although he had only a few patients he always kept on the jump, attending to his patients' smallest needs. People began to notice this young doctor driving about town and they called him because he looked busy and prosperous. He got his start—a start that led to a comfortable practice.

A town, like this doctor, must look prosperous to be prosperous. Clean streets, attractive store windows, well-painted buildings and dwellings give the prosperous air. Well-painted buildings are greatest of these.

Foods like nuts, or rice or wheat grains, must not only be cut, but must be crushed or ground finely. Have you ever seen an old mill where wheat or corn is ground into flour between heavy stones which work with a circular motion? The millstones are the grindstones of the mouth. At the same time that the millstones are grinding up the food, the saliva-mixes with it and a soft pulp is formed, ready for swallowing. All kinds of food must be broken up and thoroughly saturated with saliva before being passed on to the stomach. REFUSES A DIVORCE TO JOHN G. OSGOOD

Judge Grimm Orders Plaintiff to Pay $10 a Month Toward Support of Minor Child.

Judge Grimm denied a divorce to John G. Osgood this morning in circuit court at the completion of testimony of the defense in the action in which Osgood sought a separation from his wife, Mrs. M. E. Osgood. Osgood claimed cruelty as grounds for a separation and his wife advanced counterclaims of cruelty and non-support.

In denying the divorce Judge Grimm found that the defendant, John G. Osgood, was a proper person to have the custody of the minor child for whose support he ordered that the husband contribute $10 a month. The parties are both residents of this city.

JOSEPH L. BOSTWICK DIED ON SATURDAY

PROMINENT CITIZEN AND BUSINESS MAN PASSES AWAY AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

BURIAL TUESDAY AT 4

Has Been Identified With the Growth and Prosperity of the City—Will Be Missed by Associates and Friends.

After a brief illness of pneumonia, from which loving care, careful nursing and medical science were powerless to save him, Joseph L. Bostwick, one of Janesville's prominent citizens and leading business men, passed to the world beyond on Saturday, April 24, shortly before four. His death came as a shock to the community in which he had taken so prominent a part, as but few knew of his serious illness.

Joseph L. Bostwick was born in Janesville September 24, 1854. He was educated at the Janesville city schools and in 1882 he entered the employment of his father's firm, the late J. M. Bostwick, of which corporation he was secretary and treasurer at the time of his death. Since the death of his father, with his brother, R. M. Bostwick, he has directed the destiny of the company.

He was married on April 27th, 1893, at Etahula, Alabama, to Miss Leila C. married life has been almost ideal. He has been a devoted husband and a loving father, to his two daughters, Faith and Leila, who with the widow, are left to mourn his loss. A third daughter preceded him to the world beyond several years ago.

He was a devout member of the Christ Episcopal church, serving as vestryman for many years and being active in all church and social work. He exemplified his religion in his life and his many deeds of kindness and charity will long be remembered by his relatives. Even in his last hours he faced death bravely with Christian fortitude and passed to the world beyond with words of courage to those who remained behind.

As a young man he was prominent in the Janesville Guards, one of the crack military organizations of the city. After organization of the Twenty-Fifth Wisconsin Infantry, he was one of the first directors of that association and also held a similar office in the Commercial club. He was president of the Rock County Telephone company, director in the Old Life Insurance company of America, of Milwaukee, and director in the Janesville Y. M. C. A. He was also a member of the Janesville lodge of the B. P. O. E.

Aside from his widow and daughters, his mother, three brothers and five sisters are left to mourn his loss. His mother, Mrs. J. M. Bostwick, of Philadelphia, Pa., is survived by Mrs. N. L. Carle, Miss Racine Bostwick, Mrs. S. B. Richlin, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. J. M. Bostwick, of Milwaukee; three sons, Mrs. R. L. Colvin, Mrs. W. T. Van Kirk, and Miss Edeline Bostwick.

His business and in the city at large, Mr. Bostwick will be sadly missed. His kindly words of advice, his generous spirit and public enterprise, made a place in the hearts of all who knew him. He looked to the best interests of his home city and was first to do everything in his power to alleviate distress and suffering or to promote the best interests of the community. He was a public spirited citizen and will be mourned sincerely by those who have come in contact with him and knew and appreciated his generous action.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock from Christ Episcopal church. Reverend John M. Kilmer will conduct the service. The choir of the same church will sing hymns during the service which were favorites of Mr. Bostwick. The pall bearers will be intimate friends of the deceased and employees of the firm of Bostwick & Sons. There will be George S. Parker, Fred Clemons, Albert Schaller, John Phillips of Milwaukee, Perry Bolton and Anton C. Bentner. The interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery.

Trisbie Inman, oldest son of Edward Ray and Laura Inman, died at Franklin, Pennsylvania, Saturday morning. He was in the city of Janesville, Wis., and moved to the eastern state with his parents when a small child. Although but twenty-one years of age he was an expert draughtsman and was associated with his father in business in the town where his young life went out. He had good habits and will be greatly missed. He is survived by his parents, one brother and three sisters. A grandfather, Mrs. M. A. Inman, resides at 304 Oakland avenue, in this city. Several other relatives reside in this state. Funeral was held this afternoon at the home of his parents in Franklin, Pa.

Eggs Minus Bacon. The genre of bacon as a breakfast dish does not date back very far. We learn from Macaulay that the fare served in 1831 at Rogers' breakfast parties—the most famous on record—consisted of "very good coffee, very good tea and very good eggs, butter left in the midst of ice and hot rolls."

MAY MAKE A PROTEST OVER PAYING ORDERS

Property-owners on South Franklin street may protest the order of the city to have the street repaved. The city is now paying from Pleasant street to Franklin street. Since the petition was filed requesting for macadam, a few of the residents voiced a protest against the expensive work. It is understood that enough of the property owners having frontage on South Franklin street who are effected by the order, have announced themselves in favor of a permanent type over macadam, to balance the city's action. "We feel confident that the property-owners will see that the concrete is the logical pavement, when it is laid, and instead of protests there will be praise for the betterment," said Mayor Fathers this morning.

Helpful Circle. The Helpful Circle of the Baptist church will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in the church parlors. The birthday suppers of April and May will be had.

SUNDAY VIOLATIONS REPORTED IN COURT

Two Men in Court Tell of Obtaining Liquor at Dew Drop Inn Sunday Morning.

Following testimony that was given in the municipal court from two self-confessed drunks, that they purchased whiskey at the Dew Drop Inn or Railroad hotel at South Janesville on Sunday morning, District Attorney S. C. Dunlap swore out a state warrant against Fred Vogel, charging violation of the Sunday liquor laws. Vogel appeared in court and was fined $25 and costs.

The two prisoners were Thomas Joyce, Eastern avenue, and Joe Dawson, of Chicago, who were arrested by Turnkey William Wogan at South Janesville about noon Sunday. Reports had been received from the county jail and rumors were current on the streets, that there was a serious stabbing affair at South Janesville.

Joyce turned in a telephone call received by William Smith, keeper of a saloon across from the Dew Drop Inn, that Joyce and Dawson were causing trouble. It is said the men were intoxicated from whiskey purchased at the Railroad hotel and when refused more by Smith at the other saloon, broke several windows and threatened violence.

There were four in the gang, the other two being Beloit men. At the Smith saloon they offered to "clean out the place, and then Dawson and Joyce turned their pugilistic inclinations on one another. As far as was received by William Smith, keeper of a saloon across from the Dew Drop Inn, that Joyce and Dawson were causing trouble. It is said the men were intoxicated from whiskey purchased at the Railroad hotel and when refused more by Smith at the other saloon, broke several windows and threatened violence.

At eleven o'clock, first called, pleaded guilty to being intoxicated, and declared that he had obtained two bottles of whiskey from the bartender at the Dew Drop Inn and to his paying one dollar for the liquor. He was given fifteen dollars or twenty-five dollars, Dawson stated he purchased two bottles of beer and whiskey at the hotel for the same. He was given seven days in default of a five dollar fine.

THREE, SEVEN AND NINE.

Why is a dozen?
Why is twelve a fixed stopping place any more than fourteen or eight?
It is easy enough to see why with our numerical system built on decimals, five and ten should be way stations, so to speak, but why twelve?
Aristotle numbers quater things when you stop to think of them?
And what an individuality some of them seem to have.

Three as a Fairy Tale Number.
Take three for instance. That's pre-eminently the fairy tale number.
Everything in fairy tales runs by threes. There are usually three princes, three sisters, of whom, again, the third and youngest is the desirable one. If the prince has to undergo trials of his efficiency there are always three trials.
In the Merchant of Venice, to take a grown-up fairy tale, there are three trials.
Kats, and of course it is the third to which the prince's suitors are led which is the right choice. On the other hand, take the fairy tales of our babyhood, how many little pigs did the bad wolf try to "huff and puff" out of existence; and how many bears wanted to know, "who's been eating up my porridge, who's been sitting in my chair, who's been sleeping in my bed?" Another series of three, by the way.

Seven, I believe is supposed to be the mystic number, the symbol of the mystic religions. It is moreover a favorite number in the mysterious imagery of Revelations. You doubtless remember the seven golden candlesticks, the seven seals, the seven angels with seven trumpets, and the magnificent imagery of him "that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand."
Nine has always seemed an interesting number to me chiefly because of a peculiar phenomenon based upon it. Take any number containing several digits such as 54321; add these digits together and subtract their sum from the original figure and the digits in the remainder added together will always make nine or a multiple of nine. For instance, take the number 54321.
Sum of these digits is 22. Subtract 22 from 54321 and you get 54360, the sum of whose digits equals eighteen.

Puzzle Somebody With This Trick.
This can be made into a parlor trick by asking anyone to take any number, add the digits together, subtract the sum from the original number, then give you all the digits but one of the new number and you will guess the other. You do this, of course, by adding together the digits given you and subtracting from the nearest multiple of nine. The only difficulty is when the digit may then be either nine or zero. The remaining
I have never heard anyone explain why this is so and if any reader friend can explain this mysterious property of nine, I shall be most interested, although I doubt very much if I shall be able to understand the explanation.
You see, I really am a woman.

buttoning, cross the straps. This makes a very neat apron.
To Prepare Chickens—After head,
feet and feathers have been removed
and washed, cut off wings and fold;
cut off legs at high joint and dis-
joint knees. Then cut from point of breast down and backward to joint
in back; disjoint and remove inter-
osides of neck, disjoint and remove
crop and windpipe; then cut off wish-
bone, now on each side, from joint
is easily cut through, which removes
the ribs. This leaves all the pieces
perfectly flat so as to brown nicely
when fried in skillet.

TASTEFUL DESSERTS.
Floating Island of Fresh Straw-
berries—Crush one pint fresh strawberries and sweeten to taste. Beat
whites of eggs to a stiff froth
and gradually mix in one-half cup
powdered sugar and sufficient strained juice from berries to color and
flavor, then beat again until mer-ingue will stand alone. Meanwhile
prepare a boiled custard from one
pint milk, yolks of the eggs, pinch of salt, one-half cup sugar. Cook thickened (do not let it boil), flavor with
a little vanilla extract and when cool
pour into glass dish. Place carefully
over custard a layer of the crushed
berries and drop the meringue in peaks on top of the fruit. Place on ice to chill before serving.

Old-Fashioned Flaky Shortcake—
Make a common biscuit dough with
either sour milk or baking powder,
then roll it out about half inch thick
and spread shortening over it—lard
or butter, or lard and butter mixed.
Sprinkle a little flour over, then roll
it up like jelly roll and roll out again
to fit the pan, bake in hot oven. If baking powder is used it will not need shortening.

Pineapple Cake Dessert—One can
sliced pineapple, two cups flour,
about two-thirds cup milk, three level
teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth
level teaspoon salt, two level tablespoons butter. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together, rub in butter, add milk, stirring lightly; turn
this out on floured board, roll into a
thin sheet, line a greased round shallow pan, arrange pineapple on this,
letting the slices lap a little, sprinkle
lightly with sugar, add a few bits
of butter and bake in quick oven
twenty minutes. Serve warm with cream or the syrup from pineapple.

THE TABLE.
Economical Breakfast Dish for
Three Persons—Cut four slices bacon in dice and fry brown. Beat one tablespoon flour and a little milk and
water to smooth paste, then add
three eggs and beat thoroughly. Now
pour in one and one-half cups milk,
then stir in with bacon until thick.
Season with salt and pepper to taste.
Bacon may be omitted if you use bac-
con fryings in spider.

Japanese Koto—Cut five pounds
rhubarb into small pieces and
sprinkle with equal weight of sugar.
Let stand over night. In the morning
pour boiling water over one and
one-half pounds figs cut into bits,
add rhubarb and grated rind and
juice of two lemons, then cook until thick. This is a good relish to serve with cold meats and can be used for
cake filling.

HYPNOTISM IS TRIED
ON WOUNDED SOLDIERS
WITH GOOD RESULTS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, April 26.—Hypnotism is
being tried with some good results
in the treatment of soldiers who have
been broken down under the shock and
strain of the battlefield.
The patient is seated in a chair
and is brought under hypnosis in the ordinary way. He is told to clear
his mind of all other thoughts and
to concentrate on the single subject
of his cure. If, as often happens, his mind is affected by "shell shock," he
is told quietly and firmly that the
defect has been cured and that he can once again see clearly. In some cases a single sitting is enough, in
others, the treatment is repeated
many times.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Well, how are my wife and baby?" asked Dick, bounding into the house.

"He's so good; he sleeps so much
I hardly know what color his eyes are," Nell was sitting by the open window in the shade of the apple tree.

"Oh, Dick, see
what came this morning," Nell displayed a handsome silver
cup inscribed
"Harlow."

"That's from your father; he is a pleased
about the name
as your mother
was. This baby
spoon, knife and fork are from Daddy. Every day brings some pretty present.
I didn't know I had so many friends."

Dick smiled down into her happy
face, fanned in the pretty breakfast cap.
"The doctor says I may have dinner with you today."

"My, it seems so long since you came to this table. I'm glad that nurse has gone; she got on my nerves." Nell laughed.
"Dinner is ready," called Mrs.
Reeves, bringing in a platter of juicy steak. "I hope you are hungry, Nell."

Dick helped Nell to her chair. A big bouquet of roses sat at her place in honor of the festive occasion.
"Oh, thank you, dear," she said
with shining eyes. "I'm very happy."

Before dinner was well under way
a commotion was heard at the door,
and Dick, looking over his shoulder,
saw his father and mother coming
in. Nell started to get up, but Mrs.

Morton raised her hand in protest.
"Now, you sit still, Nell; you'll make yourself sick. I can look at him without help," and she bent over the sleeping infant. "My! Doesn't he make you think of Dick?"
Mrs. Reeves has hastened to get extra plates, and Dick said:
"Come, mother, the baby will keep better than this good steak will, and I want you to meet Nell's mother,
Mrs. Reeves."

"It ought to be easy to get acquainted as long as we own Nell because we've seen her so much," said
Mrs. Morton, reaching out a serviceable hand to grasp
Mrs. Reeves' plump one.
"Come, father," called Dick.
"I can't," laughed the delighted old man. "The little fellow is hanging on to my finger; we're chums already."

"You see," explained Dick's father as he sat down to dinner, "we could not agree as to who should come down here first, to see the baby.
Mother said I must, since he was named for me, but I wouldn't leave her, so we both ran away and left him alone. I must get back tomorrow to attend to the work."

"Yes, and I am needed in the busy season, too, but we had to have a look at the first grandchild. There's quartermaster of a century," added Mrs.
Morton.
"The farm won't run away," laughed Dick.

"Your lovely gift came this morning," said Nell, in an aside to Father Morton. "Thank you so much."
"I had no idea when we could get away, so I sent it along."

The baby waked and began to cry.
Mrs. Morton rose and took him up, saying, "You wanted to see your Grandma Morton, didn't you? Well, she's here. Open your eyes instantly, my dear. I want to see what color your eyes are. How much does he weigh?" she asked.
"Eight pounds," answered Nell proudly.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When I was nineteen I thought that I was sincerely in love with a girl one year senior. After leaving high school I got a job and in a short time I worked into an excellent
position for a boy
of my age. My salary was one hundred a month,
which seemed ample at the time to support a wife and, with chances of a
raise, a family.
And so I proposed to the girl.
She refused me
flatly, and when I persisted she told me that it had been all she could
do to resist me.
My life seemed
to stop right
there; all enthusiasm and ambition left me. I was in despair. I had read of men
who forgot their
girl in drinking,
and, desperate, I tried the same. It worked, at least partly, because when I was drunk I did not suffer so. The refusal didn't get the better of me until I became so dissipated that I could not keep my job. Then I went from bad to worse, doing odd jobs to get money enough to buy drinks. My father disowned me. For three years

I kept up my dissipation and then one spring night I came to myself.
I buckled up, got a job and since then have not fallen. A short time ago I had a desire to seek my old friends—not the girl, she is connected with the horror of those three years—but the boys who used to mean so much to me. They would not welcome me back as a friend, I had sunk too low. What can I do?
I crave friends, but I cannot make know of my past. I shrink from girls and anyway if I cared to be with them they would not have me.
Thank you, Mrs. Thompson, for advice you can give me.
JOHN.

As soon as you can, move to another city and take up work. The friends you make will know nothing of your past and their attitude toward you will be a help rather than a hindrance in the new life you are leading. A man who can brace up after what you have gone through is bound to succeed wherever he is.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen and I am going with a boy of whom I am very fond. This boy annoys me, however, by telephoning the last minute and asking to come over or to take me riding.
When he wants me to go to a dance
or entertainment he phones long enough ahead of time. Why do you think it is that he doesn't ask to come ahead of time only lately? Would he come when he asks to the last minute?
KATE.

I should think a girl would rather have a boy phone the last minute, because then she can be sure she really wants to come and is not merely keeping a date in which long before he has lost interest. So many times comes a date is made something else rather do. The girl as well as the boy ought to find it more convenient to make the date the day it is to take place.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Ever since
I was a child I have loved the little girl who lived next door to us. We played with dolls together, started school at the same time, and even went to the same college. There was always a deep mystery about the girl's mother which only lately was explained to me; she is in a hospital for the insane. During the girl's sophomore year at college she was sick and her mother's funeral; he had committed suicide. I did not at first consider this suicide strange,
but about a month ago when I asked the girl to become my wife and she told me of her mother's condition, I wondered if the girl's mother had not been the result of insanity. The girl refused to marry me because of the taint in her family, but at first I wanted to give her up. Now that I have thought the matter over I too wonder if this marriage would be best. Do you think insanity is hereditary and that there would be a chance of our children becoming insane?
BATES.

The chances are that your children would inherit a tendency toward insanity.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: How old should girls be before they can learn to dance?
MABEL AND HENRIETTA.

I think children should be taught
as soon as they are able to comprehend the steps.

Animal Jingles FOR LITTLE FOLK

HOW THE ANIMALS MADE GARDEN.

Clarissa Chicken said, "I think that in my garden bed
I'll plant corn, because I am quite fond of it," she said.

"And then, beside," Clarissa said, "although I do not know,
it seems to me that corn must be an easy thing to grow."

"Because I'm sure I would not want to have to work a lot at gardening these summer days, it is too awfully hot."

"But," said her friends, "in growing corn you'll really have to hoe."
"You're wrong," Clarissa Chicken said, "I'll simply let it grow."

And so she took some seeds of corn and threw them carelessly
Upon the ground; "It's too much work to plant the stuff," said she.

That night there came a dreadful storm, and said to say, next day
Clarissa Chicken's corn crop was entirely washed away.

Said Mother McGraw, "It's time wasted, I fear,
To do things by halves or to slight them, my dear.
For here is a thing that I've often heard tell,
I think that's worth doing is worth doing well."

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
To keep rugs and blankets safe
from moths, roll well in newspaper.
Moth will not get near printer's ink.
This has been tried for many years
and never failed.

Valuable Cement—Two parts (by weight) of common pluck and one part gutta-percha melted together in an iron vessel make a cement that will hold together wood, stone, ivory, leather, porcelain, silk, woolen or cotton. It is well adapted to squared joints.

Kitchen Apron Made of Flour Sack—Take empty flour sack (one-eighth or one-fourth sack), boll print out as well as possible. Hem flour sack, cutting off one corner for pocket. Cut two strips of another flour sack, for straps. Sew straps on big part where you cut off the corner. Then sew two buttons at each of the side corners and, when needed, cross the straps. This makes a very neat apron.

To Prepare Chickens—After head,
feet and feathers have been removed
and washed, cut off wings and fold;
cut off legs at high joint and dis-
joint knees. Then cut from point of
breast down and backward to joint
in back; disjoint and remove inter-
osides of neck, disjoint and remove
crop and windpipe; then cut off wish-
bone, now on each side, from joint
is easily cut through, which removes
the ribs. This leaves all the pieces
perfectly flat so as to brown nicely
when fried in skillet.

TASTEFUL DESSERTS.
Floating Island of Fresh Straw-
berries—Crush one pint fresh strawberries and sweeten to taste. Beat
whites of eggs to a stiff froth
and gradually mix in one-half cup
powdered sugar and sufficient strained juice from berries to color and
flavor, then beat again until mer-
ingue will stand alone. Meanwhile
prepare a boiled custard from one
pint milk, yolks of the eggs, pinch of salt, one-half cup sugar. Cook thick-
ened (do not let it boil), flavor with
a little vanilla extract and when cool
pour into glass dish. Place carefully
over custard a layer of the crushed
berries and drop the meringue in
peaks on top of the fruit. Place on
ice to chill before serving.

Old-Fashioned Flaky Shortcake—
Make a common biscuit dough with
either sour milk or baking powder,
then roll it out about half inch thick
and spread shortening over it—lard
or butter, or lard and butter mixed.
Sprinkle a little flour over, then roll
it up like jelly roll and roll out again
to fit the pan, bake in hot oven. If
baking powder is used it will not
need shortening.

Pineapple Cake Dessert—One can
sliced pineapple, two cups flour,
about two-thirds cup milk, three level
teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth
level teaspoon salt, two level tablespoons butter. Sift flour, salt and
baking powder together, rub in butter, add milk, stirring lightly; turn
this out on floured board, roll into a
thin sheet, line a greased round shal-
low pan, arrange pineapple on this,
letting the slices lap a little, sprinkle
lightly with sugar, add a few bits
of butter and bake in quick oven
twenty minutes. Serve warm with cream or the syrup from pineapple.

THE TABLE.
Economical Breakfast Dish for
Three Persons—Cut four slices bac-
on in dice and fry brown. Beat one
tablespoon flour and a little milk and
water to smooth paste, then add
three eggs and beat thoroughly. Now
pour in one and one-half cups milk,
then stir in with bacon until thick.
Season with salt and pepper to taste.
Bacon may be omitted if you use bac-
con fryings in spider.

Japanese Koto—Cut five pounds
rhubarb into small pieces and
sprinkle with equal weight of sugar.
Let stand over night. In the morning
pour boiling water over one and
one-half pounds figs cut into bits,
add rhubarb and grated rind and
juice of two lemons, then cook until
thick. This is a good relish to serve
with cold meats and can be used for
cake filling.

Sawed-Off Sermon.
Getting into heaven doesn't worry
the average man as much as trying to keep out of the other place.—Indianapolis Star.

HYPNOTISM IS TRIED
WITH GOOD RESULTS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, April 26.—Hypnotism is
being tried with some good results
in the treatment of soldiers who have
been broken down under the shock and
strain of the battlefield.
The patient is seated in a chair
and is brought under hypnosis in the ordinary way. He is told to clear
his mind of all other thoughts and
to concentrate on the single subject
of his cure. If, as often happens, his
mind is affected by "shell shock," he
is told quietly and firmly that the
defect has been cured and that he
can once again see clearly. In some cases a single sitting is enough, in
others, the treatment is repeated
many times.

When Billy Sunday Came to Town

By ALEXANDER CORKEY Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly Co.

"What are you writing there?" said Gregory, reaching for the city reporter's notebook. In a moment Reginald whipped his notebook into his pocket, warded off the other's hand and started to follow the rest.

"You —" said Gregory, making a lunge at the reporter. Reginald Nelson was glancing over his shoulder as he retreated, and he saw the other's threatening fist. Stepping to one side, he wheeled around in the doorway, let out his arm with terrific force, and Roland Gregory stretched his length on the floor. There was an instant uproar, a sound of breaking glass and loud oaths, but the reporter quickly slammed the door shut and hastily followed the others, who were now passing into the alley out of the rear door.

They reached a dark street on the edge of the business district, and the officer remarked: "We will now have a look at a gambling 'joint.' You can notice how secure these fellows will look when they see my star. They will know that it means no trouble."

Allan Rutledge began to see the value of the disguised officer's presence with them.

"Think of it, Mr. Townley," he said to his brother minister, "the fact that this guide of ours is an officer of the law in Bronson assures these divers-keepers that the visit means no danger to them. Think of it! Anarchy organized into government here in Bronson. Lawlessness protected by law."

"Hush," cautioned the police officer. They approached a house which looked desolate and deserted from the outside. The policeman knocked with four single taps. There was no response. The knock was repeated. Slowly and more cautiously than in the former instance the door was opened. "Hello, rummy," said the policeman to the fellow at the door, pushing him aside and walking into the hall. The man seemed a little in doubt and tried to shut the door in the officer's face.

"None of that," said the policeman sternly, pulling a revolver with his right hand and pulling back his coat with the left.

At the sight of the star the man's confidence was restored, and he said: "We have to be mighty careful for awhile, as lots of our friends have gone daff since Billy Sunday was here."

Leading the way into the inner room, he ushered the investigators of Bronson's night revelries into a large, well lighted place, fitted up with all the fixtures needed in gambling games. Several of the tables were empty, but there was a fair crowd present.

The policeman seated himself at one of the tables, motioning to his companions to do likewise, and the four men sat down and gazed around. The door man was somewhat suspicious as he looked at the quartette, especially since he could not recognize the wearer of the star.

"What's your name?" he asked the officer in a doubtful tone of voice.

"None of your business," was the curt reply.

Allan Rutledge shuddered as he looked at the votaries of America's national sin. He remembered vividly some of the burning words of Mr. Sunday, who knows so well the actual life of the average American. It was during the evangelist's well known sermon on "Amusements," in which he denounced the modern dance as the mother of wantons and the fashionable card party as the starting point for the gambler. "I am more afraid of your fashionable card party," the evangelist had shouted, "than I am of the bunch in the gamblers' haunts. If my boy is not tempted to gamble at a fashionable card party he will never learn from the degenerate, blacking gamblers in the joint. You have no right to find fault with the city officials," Billy Sunday declared, "if they fail to suppress gambling when a thing so near skill to it is carried on in your own homes. Society as it is constituted today in America is doing more to damn the spiritual life of the churches than all the groshops and dives in the land."

The doctender was becoming very uncomfortable. He saw Reginald Nelson making notes, and his fears were finally confirmed when one of the players, happening to look toward the four men, exclaimed, "What are those preachers doing here?"

"Squealers, squealers!" yelled the fellow, arousing the players and pointing to the investigators.

A number of guns flashed in the hands of the startled men, and Allan Rutledge feared that there was danger. He was about to speak to the excited gamblers when the policeman carelessly threw the lapel of his coat back and cried: "Shut up, sir, or I will have your 'joint' pulled! Don't you know this star tells you that we are all right? If you treat officers like this we will raise the rent on you!"

The policeman arose and the others with him, and they made for the door. Allan Rutledge was the last to pass out. As he was shutting the door the crack of a gun was heard, and a bullet splintered the top of the door. The little party proceeded hastily to the street, the policeman hurrying in front. "A lot of cutthroats in that gang," he declared. "This is one of the 'joints' that ought to be closed in the interests of public safety."

In silence the little company made their way to the Courier office. The policeman slipped away, and the three friends sat in silence for a few moments. "We now have the information we desired. We are witnesses of the actual conditions fostered by Bud McCrea's policy." It was Reginald Nelson who spoke. Allan Rutledge aroused himself. "Bronson shall be clean!" he exclaimed almost fiercely. "Let us think over what we have seen and heard for a few days, and then we can formulate a plan of campaign."

The report of the strange tour of the self appointed investigators spread consternation among the "gang," who were in charge of the city administration of Bronson. Both the resort keepers and the habitués of the dives brought the news the next day to Bud McCrea. He hurriedly called on the mayor for an explanation.

"I hear you detailed a policeman last night to accompany those preachers and that fool reporter on a slumming trip," said McCrea angrily.

The mayor looked surprised and retorted quickly. "What's that?"

"Did you not detail an officer to accompany a party last night who were sneaking around town?" McCrea was plainly excited as he asked this question.

"I know nothing about it," said the mayor. "Tell me what has happened?"

Bud McCrea then told of the midnight tour of Dr. Rutledge, Mr. Townley and Reginald Nelson, and of the presence of a policeman with them.

"The man surely had a star on his coat. He must have been a fake policeman. If that is so we will get even with that crowd of Billy Sunday dreamers if they try to make any trouble."

The chief of police also denied any knowledge of an officer acting as guide in Bronson's underworld, and the affair was a good deal of mystery.

CHAPTER XIV. The New Editor.

ALLAN RUTLEDGE and Edgar Prince, the manufacturer, headed a delegation that visited a meeting of the city council a few evenings later and protested against the evil conditions. McCrea attacked them with hard words, but finally a resolution advocating reform was passed.

The next day Mr. Graham called on Mr. Rutledge and told him his crusade was annoying to the town's business interests. The answer Mr. Graham received was that he was to be removed from the position of trustee of the Central church. Edgar Prince was to be substituted.

Graham left in anger and had a conference with the mayor, Roland Gregory, Bud McCrea and several other councilmen. Something must be done to end the war on graft and crime.

"If we can get control of the Courier and drive out of Bronson that English mutt Nelson, we can soon get things settled again," said Roland Gregory.

This view was agreed to by several of the men, especially Ned Rowlands.

"I think I have a plan," said Mr. Graham, speaking in a low voice. He looked around the company of men anxiously. He then outlined in detail his plans to get possession of the Courier, and turn it back to its old custom of supporting the McCrea policies in Bronson.

The scheme outlined by Mr. Graham pleased the conference immensely. "We can get around Mr. Marchmont if you offer him a proposition like that," said McCrea, when Mr. Graham had finished. The lawyer's project proposed the blackening of the name of Reginald Nelson, as his eager advocacy of the people's cause was most bitterly resented by some of the industrial magnates as well as by the politicians of the McCrea type.

In addition to ending the career of Reginald Nelson in Bronson they planned to acquire control over the Courier by offering Mr. Marchmont a large bonus for his majority of the shares of stock in the company controlling the paper. "We will tempt Mr. Marchmont to sell the paper by agreeing to make Reginald Nelson the editor as his successor," said Mr. Graham, "and then we will sell some stock to Nelson, enough to get him badly in debt. We will let him imagine he is editor for a month or two, and then we can pull our strings and throw him out and start the stories. That will be the end of the Englishman."

Mr. Graham sauntered into the office of the Courier one morning a week or so after the conference of the McCrea supporters. He had heard that the editor was in poor health, and he felt that the time was propitious to broach the subject of the sale of the Courier.

"You need a good rest, my friend," rejoined Mr. Graham. "Why don't you give up work for a year and take a good trip to Europe? It will add ten years to your life."

"I have been thinking sometimes that I ought to take a real vacation," responded the editor wearily.

"The Courier has had a successful career, and you are now well able to retire. Would you care to sell out?"

"Sell out?" The editor repeated the words quickly and looked at Mr. Graham.

"Yes. You know there are always people looking for a good investment, and your newspaper is considered a paying venture."

"It is more prosperous at present than ever before. That young Englishman, Mr. Nelson, has been successful above all my hopes in making the paper popular with the great mass of workingmen who are so numerous in Bronson. When a paper has a list of subscribers like the Courier it is easy to get advertising contracts which make a newspaper pay."

"What kind of an editor in chief would Mr. Nelson make?" asked Mr. Graham in matter of fact tones.

"He would take my place tomorrow and make the Courier one of the most influential papers in southern Michigan in less than a year," replied Mr. Marchmont, with enthusiasm.

"I can't understand where the boy gets his knowledge of the business. He must have had some experience in England, but it is strange how quiet he keeps about his own private life in the old country. Mr. Nelson is a good deal of a mystery to me."

"Seriously, Mr. Marchmont," said the lawyer, "I have a friend who would like to buy some of the stock of your company just as an investment, and I think if he got control that we could arrange to make Mr. Nelson the editor, as my word would go a long way with him."

Mr. Marchmont was interested. "Have you any proposition to make me?" he asked Mr. Graham.

The lawyer had carefully figured out the amount of stock which he desired, to purchase in order to control the policy of the Courier, and he answered promptly. "Yes, I can make you an offer right now."

Mr. Graham drew his chair nearer to the editor's desk and told him how much money he was instructed to invest. "You now own 90 per cent of the stock yourself," said the lawyer. "I am ready to purchase 75 per cent of it at the market value. If Mr. Nelson should be chosen as editor we would wish to see him interested in the paper to the extent of the other 15 per cent."

"I am afraid the young man could not make an investment of that amount at present. He has told me that he has no capital at present. I am assured he must be a member of some wealthy English family, but he came out to America with very little money."

"He will not need to trouble about that," answered Mr. Graham. "We will arrange to take his note for the amount of the stock, and with the earnings of the paper the stock will soon pay for itself."

"I will think this matter over and have a talk with Mr. Nelson," said Mr. Marchmont finally, and Mr. Graham withdrew.

On his way to his office the lawyer met Reginald Nelson hurrying to the Courier building.

"What is your hurry this morning?" said Mr. Graham, stopping and reaching out his hand cordially to Reginald.

The young man was amazed at the kindly reception, as he imagined that Joy's father would be his bitter personal enemy after recent events. He shook hands with Mr. Graham somewhat mechanically without making any response.

"You young men have won the day in Bronson," said the lawyer smilingly. "We old fogies thought that these new ideas of reform were too advanced."

"I am glad to hear you commend the victory of the reform elements in Bronson," said Reginald Nelson, finding his voice. "We hope that the city administration will soon be convinced that they have made no mistake in bending to the will of the majority."

"The Courier is getting a good deal of the credit for the victory," said Mr. Graham in a patronizing kind of voice, "and Mr. Marchmont tells me that you are the real power back of the Courier. I have a little matter of business to talk over with you, Mr. Nelson. Could you come to our house for dinner this evening?"

"I—I shall be glad to do so, sir," responded Reginald, somewhat confused. In a deep quandary Reginald Nelson walked slowly to the newspaper office. He was called into consultation at once by Mr. Marchmont, who related to him the conversation he had just had with Mr. Graham.

"That accounts for it," said Reginald. "I met Mr. Graham a few blocks down the street, and he spoke to me more cordially than he has ever done before in his life and invited me to his house to talk over some business."

"Mr. Nelson, the opportunity of your life has come. For so young a man the position of editor of this paper would be remarkable. You must have had some years of experience in England, did you not?"

"I had bitter years of experience, I admit," said the other, his eyes getting moist, "but I see they are yielding me the fruit of success now. I have had my ups and downs in life, I tell you, and a good many more downs than ups." Mr. Marchmont wondered still more what was in those hidden years in England.

A little before 6 o'clock Reginald knocked at the door of the Graham home. It was opened by Joy, who was evidently expecting him. "We are glad to see you, Mr. Nelson," she said pleasantly. "Papa told us you were coming to dinner. It is a long time since you have been at our house."

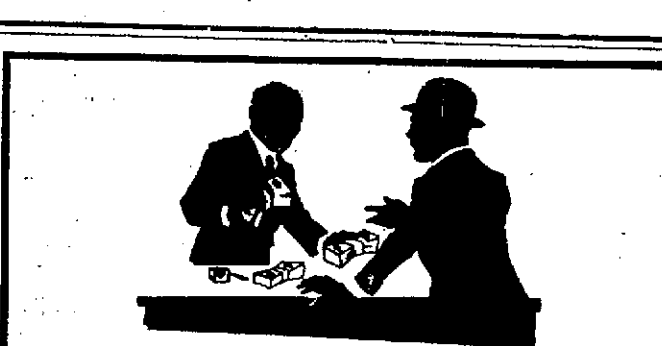

In a few moments Mrs. Graham also appeared and welcomed the young man cordially.

"Good evening, Mr. Nelson," Mr. Graham exclaimed, greeting the young man with a warmth which surprised both his wife and daughter.

After the dinner Reginald and Mr. Graham retired to the library, where the latter outlined to the young Englishman his plans for the Courier.

"I fear I cannot purchase the stock at present," said Reginald.

SUMMER GARDNERS BUSILY OCCUPIED WITH PLANT LIFE

Lawnwork and Vegetables Prove Joy
This Spring for Many Janesville Farmers.

It isn't hard to tell the Janesville man that has a garden planted and with the truck already peeping above the ground. He holds his head high in the air and wears a quiet smile of defiance as he marches through the business districts with that sort of a "Back to the Soil" grin. While many Janesville backyard farmers are in the early making process there are many more who are only counting the days until the lettuce and onions, radishes, peas, etc., will grace their table.

Lots of local men have found physical joyfulness in scratching about planting a month ago feeling that the first warm days were but the forerunner of a period of raw weather. They miscalculated, however, and the man who took a chance is just about ready to pluck his fruit.

Throughout the entire spring the ground has been easy to work and as a whole throughout the county crops have been planted with less labor than heretofore. The dry weather has continued since the advent of spring but until today has done no harm whatever although, the country citizens, as the Janesville Commercial club wishes them known, rain is welcome at any time. Threatening skies during a couple evenings of last week raised materially the farmers' hope for moisture but the rainfall passed over Janesville and vicinity.

Tree and bush fruits along with strawberries are well along hereabouts now. Ornamental trees and shrubbery are fast coming into the condition of the embryo landscape gardener. Out of town shrubbery and nursery farms have made spring deliveries in many cases and receivers of the same have been busy planting their new trees and lawn decorations.

Many of Janesville's beauty spots are taking on their summer dressing and being carefully groomed and cared for. In the park at the court house work has been under way for some time to make this a civic feature of beauty. Throughout Janesville at the other small parks and recreation places the city has been doing its share of beautification.

Postmaster Cunningham requested the postoffice department at Washington for the necessary waterworks for landscape gardening about the federal building here. Last fall the shrubbery was placed in the ground and at the present is coming along nicely under the care of Janitor McNett. With the entrance and side step banks with large shrubbery and green hedges bordering the walks Janesville's postoffice and grounds is meant for a place of natural beauty this summer.

Men to Be Trusted.
No men living are more worthy to be trusted than those who toil up from poverty; none less inclined to take or touch ought which they have not honestly earned.—Lincoln.

ST. JOHN'S WRITINGS ON LORD'S FAREWELL

REV. DEAN REILLY, PASTOR OF
ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH, IN INSPIRING SERMON
YESTERDAY.

HIS WORDS MYSTIFIED

Apostles Unable to Fathom Christ's Meaning When He Said He Would Go and Then Return.

The Reverend Dean Eugene E. Reilly, speaking yesterday at the 7:30 o'clock service at St. Patrick's church, gave a short but highly instructive and interesting sermon on the farewell words of Jesus Christ as He and His apostles left the board of the last supper. It was while walking on their journey to Mt. Olivet.

"These last words, of farewell are only given in the writings of St. John," the beloved apostle," said Dean Reilly. "He writes much of them in Chapter XXX, verses 30 to the end. No other apostle has ever touched upon this farewell message in his writings. Only this saint who had made for himself a place in the heart of the Lord relates of His lesson."

The Lord said, "Let us go hence," and they went out from the place of the last supper. It was while walking to Mt. Olivet He said, "In a little while you shall see Me and again in a little while you shall not see Me."

"The apostles and their followers were silent at this strange discourse," reflected. But still they could not understand His meaning. A shame and anguish of soul filled them. They pondered over His words but their meaning, at that time, was not for them. They had the intuition that He was about to leave them and the thought filled them with sorrow and dread.

"When He told them, 'In a little while you shall see Me and again in a little while you shall not see Me,' they were like children. They asked each other, 'What does He mean?' The apostles were unable to fathom the significance of these strange words of their beloved leader and redeemer and Jesus Christ followed out His words in action. Jesus Christ, a little while after this died the ignominious death on the cross and then later He rose to the living. It was after all this that they understood and not until then they already admonished them to go forth and preach the word of God throughout the then known world.

"He gave them the strength and the fortitude, and to us too he gives strength to carry our heavy and hard burden upon us day by day and week by week.

"In our distress and trials of fate many things arise daily to almost stagger us. We are laboring under the heavy load of the burden of Christ. There appears to be no rest for us and only when we are in His love does our burden lighten. Approach Him and His light and His assistance and His love will make us strong. Remember, those words until spoke and always be ready to receive Him. In Jesus Christ the consolation of His contemplation can always be found. In the words of the gospel this consolation predominates, perhaps, the most.

Take the cases of the apostles. They were instructed by Him to teach all the nations. They were to appear before the tribunals of their enemies and preach His word. They traveled far and wide in their work. Pains and tribulations for them were many. Untold agonies and persecutions they suffered. But they believed in Him and in His word and with His word in their souls they followed Him.

"So must we today follow in the footsteps of Jesus Christ and His beloved apostles. In our souls, too, must we keep the word of God and always remember that He is our Redeemer. By doing this and with His indomitable help the success that can not be found or secured elsewhere will be ours."

LACK OF FUNDS MAY STOP FLY CAMPAIGN

Junior Civic League May Have to Abandon Work—Seed Packages
Being Distributed.

While a total of five thousand six hundred fly casualties were registered by Janesville school children last week, and with no attempt to estimate the number the housewife swarmed, due to the campaign against the pest, promoted by the Junior Civic League, the commendable fight against the fly and the subsequent infectious diseases liable to be carried by him may have to be abandoned by the league, due to the lack of funds, according to a member of the committee this morning. No suggestion as to the means of securing additional money to continue the work was suggested.

The distribution of penny packages of seed began last week and will be continued until practically every school child in the city, who has been denied facilities of even the smallest nature, has been supplied.

Fly counting Saturday morning at the Douglas school to be the last of the week, he having exacted two thousand since the previous report. Miss Ruth Curville of the Adams school was able to secure 800 during the week and was awarded second highest for the time being. Harold Zehn of the German Lutheran parish school was third with 500 while Miss Edna Green and Joseph Zastin of the Webster school and Miss Magdalena Colp of the Adams school each secured 400. William Rhoads and Ralph Folt of the Douglas building and George Burgess of the Lutheran parish school were able to dispose of 200 apiece. Hubert Hilton, Adams school; Harry Loch and Miss Helen Workins, Jefferson school; and Miss Helen Rendon of the Garfield finished the list with exactly 100 each.

WATCH WIRELESS SYSTEM FOR WARNING OF FLOODS IN PLACE OF LIGHTS.

London, April 26.—Experiments with wireless signals are being followed very closely by "The Times" in the belief that the system will prove more valuable than coast lights. Some experts are even looking forward to the gradual extinction of the latter.

The wireless signals can be employed in foggy weather when light-houses cannot be seen and several known as direct signals.

On the North coast of France the French Government has been experimenting with special stations, the signals being emitted at regular intervals. A vessel is fitted with a radio compass it is easy to apply the receipt of any signal at all is an advantage, for the exact positions of the stations are known.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN R. WEST, Director

A great many questions are asked now about spraying. One answer will suffice for most of them.

It is time to spray now cherries and plums, just before the blossom opens. Some of the apple trees, especially the early crab apples are also ready for spraying and others will be in a few days. The rule applying here is just before the leaf buds open. These are followed very quickly by the blossoms. The trees should not be sprayed when in bloom, but just before the blossoms open and just after they fall, for the first and second application of Bordeaux mixture and potassium arsenate.

The poison should be arsenate of lead or Paris green. If the latter can be used to buy the best and that with fine particles.

Because of the demand for a formula for Bordeaux mixture, the following is reprinted from the Gazette of May 26, 1914. It would be well for those having garden trees or bushes to refer to it and preserve it for future reference.

Paris green to be used is regulated by the amount of water, in this case ten parts of water to one part of the usual rule.

In the directions which follow arsenate of lead is the poison used instead of Paris green. The directions are the same, but lead to use will be found upon the label of the material.

The formulas for Bordeaux mixture is as follows:
Copper sulphate (blue vitrol) . . . 4 lbs.
Lime 5 lbs.
Water 50 gal.

Of course for only one tree, 50 gal. much smaller quantity would be required. Most people, however, have a large number of trees and the quantity is therefore well to have a quantity. One-fourth amount, given above will be sufficient for 12 to 15 trees of ordinary size.

For making Bordeaux mixture from the Wisconsin Horticulture. The recipe is as follows: Use a smaller amount to be varied to suit conditions. In place of half barrels, or large pails may be used and jars may be used in place of pails. Iron or steel vessels should never be used. Care should be used to follow directions exactly.

ORFORDVILLE WOMAN MISSING TWO DAYS

"I'm Leaving Home for Good," Says
Farewell Note of Mrs. H. C.
Stavem, Mother of Five Children.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Orfordville, April 26.—County authorities were enlisted today in the search for Mrs. H. C. Stavem of this village, who left her home Friday night and of whom no trace has since been found. A note addressed to her husband said that she had "gone for good," and that he need make no search. Mrs. Stavem is the mother of five children, the youngest being four years old and the oldest about twelve.

Mrs. Stavem was unable to give a reason for her wife's disappearance and has been unable to get anything of her whereabouts from relatives living at Edgerton and other points in this part of the state. His work for him to Madison much of his time and it is thought that his wife became despondent because of his frequent absences. He was home on Friday and noticed that Mrs. Stavem was inclined to moroseness. She failed to inquire about his business affairs and showed little or no interest in family matters. Toward evening she went to her husband's room and said she was going out for a while. When she came down stairs he found a note saying she had gone and admonishing him that search would be futile. Thinking that she had gone away on a "mad fit," Stavem paid no attention to her disappearance until Sunday. When he became alarmed.

Mrs. Stavem is a woman of 35 years, of medium height and build, weighing about 135 pounds. She has dark hair and eyes and is considered good looking.

This Is Gas Range Week

"Gas Range Week" Interests Millions of Housewives

April 26 marks the beginning of "Gas Range Week," the celebration of which has been planned for weeks by the New Gas Light Co., and all other gas companies in the United States for the entertainment and instruction of American householders in the science of cooking with gas. It is an annual institution in the gas industry and within the past year or two has grown to be of more than passing interest to the millions of housewives who have adopted or will soon adopt the gas range into their homes.

This year over 1,200 gas companies have made preparations to entertain their customers during the six-day period with every fact and fancy connected with the range; some with elaborate displays of the new 1915 models of these modern kitchen appliances, some with receptions and music, and others through interesting demonstrations of their effectiveness, with bargain prices as special inducements for their adoption. Gaily colored bunting, with the "stars and stripes" predominating, will flash from a thousand store-fronts in as many different localities, and window displays that have taxed the ingenuity of the best artists in this line will attract attention to the gas office in town and city from Maine to California. No celebration of American events or institutions could be wider in extent or more intimately touch the home-life of the individual than this observance of "Gas Range Week."

It is just 110 years ago this month that F. A. Windsor, an Englishman, observing his wife remove the cook-stove ashes, started a chain of thought that resulted in one of the treasures of the musty archives of the British Patent Office—a patent for extracting inflammable air from coal. From that seed sprung the world's greatest domestic utility, the gas range. It is in celebration of this discovery of Windsor's that "Gas Range Week" is observed at this season, and not, as many believe, because it is the beginning of the season for the gas range to come into operation. Any gas man will laugh at the suggestion of a "season" for the gas range, for with the development of the "all-gas-kitchen" idea has come the conviction that the gas range is an all-the-year-round institution, as much so as the gas lamp in the library or hall.

To become thoroughly posted on the the gas range, its uses and its advantages, it is therefore incumbent upon the housewife and her neighbor to visit the local gas office at least one time during "Gas Range Week." April 26 to May 1, inclusive.
